Core Knowledge

Promotion methods are used to inform consumers about products and persuade them to buy them.

Mass market products can use mass media, such as Television, national newspapers or radio. These are expensive, but cheap per customer. Niche market products, or smaller businesses can use local radio, local newspapers or social media.

Businesses may use sponsorship to build their brand through selecting a business that reflects their values, e.g. Red Bull sponsors extreme sports.

New products may offer product trials, e.g. free tastes or samples.

Impact of technology:

- Targeted advertising online through the use of cookies
- Viral advertising via social media, e.g. the Ice bucket challenge to raise awareness and donations to ALPS
- Apps for engaging with customers
- E-newsletters and emails

Don't be a "man on the street"

- Remember promotion is not just advertising – it includes lots of other strategies as well
- Don't just say "TV" or "in a newspaper" – be specific, i.e. which channels? Which programs? What time? Link to the target market
- Social media is not "free" – it costs in time and in search optimisation

Wider Business World

Football teams – sponsored by businesses, as are sporting events such as the FA cup

Echo Falls – a wine brand that sponsored a cooking program; an example of linking the product to the likes of the target market

Synoptic Links

Technology – made it easier to advertise on social media

Legislation – adverts must be true and meet regulations

Market Segmentation – a business will need to know the target market well to know where to advertise

Break-even – promoting will have a cost implication, therefore raising the break-even point

Globalisation – will the promotion work in all countries?
